Parnell Addresses a Monster Meeting in a London District.

A Correspondent's Review

[illegible] Edward A Perry of the [illegible] cables from London this evening as follows The election at Bath yesterday [illegible] two unionists one liberal and other conservatives were returned offers a striking [illegible] of the loyalty with which the conservatives are carrying out their pledges of [illegible] to dissident liberals At the last [illegible] at Bath which in 1880 had sent liberals [illegible] parliament with rousing majorities, turned [illegible] way round and elected Mr Blaine, conservative and Mr Wadehouse, liberal, [illegible] their respective ticket partners, Col [illegible] and Sir Arthur Hayter Mr Wade[illegible] took an active part in the Hartington [illegible] against home rule and the conservative [illegible] to leave him a clear course [illegible] election Fortunately they had promised [illegible] Lawrie that he should have another [illegible] to run Here was a position to [illegible] their good faith, two aspirants of their [illegible] with strong claims to a double candi[illegible] one as an old member, the other as a [illegible] seemed very likelihood that both would [illegible] for the Irish vote in Bath is con[illegible] and the liberal party was badly shaken but the tory managers put temptation [illegible] Mr Blaine wearing his possessory [illegible] retired to make room for Col Lawrie, [illegible] preventing the junior tory aspirant from [illegible] a liberalist out of his seat So both [illegible] be represented in the new parliament by [illegible] Wadehouse as a follower of Lord Hartington and by Col Lawrie on the conservative side

[illegible] Birkenhead Sir Edward Hawley, a bitter [illegible] of Gladstone's Home Rule policy, has been elected [illegible] the death of the transferred Irish vote In [illegible] he had said he disapproved the principle [illegible] Not but what it has been loyally given [illegible] are no complaints on that score, but unfortunately except in a few cases it has been [illegible] by the cross wave of liberal confusion and abstention Thus at Bolton, where the nationalists claim 85 electors two conservatives Col Birkenhead and Mr Siddons were reelected At Bristol in addition to the recent Sir Michael Hicks Beach in the [illegible] division the tories won the south division from the Gladstonians Col Hill, who had been defeated last year by a majority of 95, [illegible] the compliment with a majority of 10 But the greatest surprise of this [illegible] came in Sanford, where, in the face [illegible] Irish vote running to 2 000 the conservatives, as I reported yesterday, made a clean [illegible] recovering their old members and [illegible] two Gladstonites in the other divisions

[illegible] the Irish vote made its mark In some [illegible] In more than one place the [illegible] on the ministerial hedge through [illegible] made by nationalist accessions In Northwest Manchester it was Irish support [illegible] Jacob Bright, a younger brother [illegible] John Bright and one of the few liberals [illegible] from the first advocated home [illegible] for Ireland Bright went to the front [illegible] majority of 111 in the very constituency which seven months ago left him in a [illegible] of 560 In North Manchester [illegible] another Gladstonite, has to [illegible] the Irish vote for a more striking reversal Last [illegible] he was defeated by a majority of [illegible] but now he has won the seat by a majority of [illegible] Leeds is another constituency [illegible] the Gladstonites have a marked im[illegible] to boast of In November [illegible] Lawrence Gore lost the seat [illegible] but for the min[illegible] with a rousing majority of 1110, and it [illegible] be remembered in a good many constituencies the Irish vote has enabled the liberal candidate to hold his ground [illegible] had it not been for this aid he would [illegible] the seat

English Politics

[illegible] —At three o clock this afternoon 310 tories 86 unionists 42 liberals [illegible] Parnellites have been elected to the [illegible] of commons. Henry George Gill (Parnellite) has been re-elected for Limerick City [illegible]

The London Mail Gazette pointing to the re[illegible] says so far as they have gone [illegible] The Irish vote in England has failed [illegible] the promises made for it by [illegible] He declared that the Irish vote [illegible] be the decisive factor in seventeen of the [illegible] constituencies Yesterday's polling [illegible] show in not result that the Irish [illegible] in two places in favor of [illegible] the others unseated

[illegible] Parnellite has been re elected [illegible] Meath Both [illegible] are disappointed at the results [illegible] Tories to [illegible] Lord Randolph Churchill, [illegible] making greater headway [illegible] The liberals pro[illegible] in spirit They point out [illegible] tories have made a net gain [illegible] Gladstone won Carlisle and Leith [illegible] which practically makes [illegible] a draw Edward Heneage, [illegible] of the most prominent liberals who [illegible] from Gladstone's support and to[illegible] the ministerial office of chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster April 8 upon the occasion of the introduction of the home rule bill was reelected to day from Gainsborough Lincolnshire as a unionist He has a majority of 900 against 814 at the last election R R Condon (Parnellite) has been rejected with opposition in the east division of Tipperary county

LONDON, July 3 In Deptford Kent the district where Palmerston Gladstone the Parsons [illegible] contest, ran as a Gladstonian against William John Evylian conservative the latter won by a majority of 1 7. In the last election the same candidate contested the district and Evylian's majority was then but 1 In the former election however the tories polled [illegible] 1 7 votes, while in this they cast but 3 65 a falling away of 245 The liberal vote fell away still more being this time 500 less than it was in last election Deptford was looked forward to by both parties as the best test case in the elections of this week but as with the enormously increased interest in the grave issue at stake the total vote fell away 740 the general construction is that Deptford proves both this and that while a number of liberals in this district upon a home rule for Ireland issue shrank offered by Gladstone they by no means favor the conservative policy

LONDON July 3—T P Fox Parnellite, has been reelected for Tullamore division of King's county T McDonald Parnellite, for the north division of Sligo John Deasy Parnellite for West Mayo and Joseph Nolan, Parnellite, for North Louth, all unopposed

LONDON, July 3—Up to 4 30 this afternoon 123 tories 2 unionists 4 liberals and 17 Parnellites have been elected Winn, conservative has been elected over Fleming, Gladstonite in Pontefract, West Riding, Yorkshire, by a majority of 239 in increase in the tory majority in the last election of 173

LONDON, July 3—Ministerialists are becoming more anxious The conservatives today gained seats in the following districts Lincoln Boston Grantham, Stafford, Salisbury, East Birmingham Kidderminster Oston Manor Oldham and South Nottingham In Scarborough the election went against the ministerialists There were many close contests notably that at Ashton under Lyne, where the mayor's casting vote decided the election amid tremendous uproar Scrutiny of the vote has been demanded by the defeated candidate In West Nottingham Mr H Broadhurst, Gladstonian, received 5175 votes and Colonel Seely, liberal unionist, 4609 At midnight there totals were 145 conservatives [illegible] unionists and 73 ministerialists M J O Kelly Parnellite has been elected in the north division of Roscommon without opposition

An Important Battle

LONDON July 3—Gladstone has sent the following dispatch to Sir Charles Russell who is the Gladstonian parliamentary candidate for South Hackney "I greatly regret that my strength will not permit me to help you in advocating in the metropolis the great cause I am watching with the utmost interest the London election I trust that Hackney will return you at your two colleagues and support Ireland's appeal to the generous sympathy and sense of justice of Englishmen"

Parnell addressed an outdoor meeting at Hackney to night in support of Sir Charles Russell's candidature Fully 10 000 persons were present In his remarks Parnell said Lord Salisbury and Lord Randolph Churchill staked their last chance in November last It is now said that the Irish question is not ripe for settlement Never was there a more disgraceful instance of political turpitude and treachery Gladstone has been called a traitor but Lord Salisbury was surely a greater traitor when he was prepared to do what Gladstone has done not because he (Salisbury) was anxious to send a message of peace to Ireland but for the ignoble purpose of catching the Irish vote Continuing, Mr Parnell said Mr Bright's scheme was grandiotherly Mr Butt had made a similar proposition and when Parnell asked him why he made it Mr Butt replied that he did so with a view of bringing about a final settlement, because every bill passed by the grand committee and killed in the house of commons or house of lords would be a standing argument in favor of home rule

Money for Ireland

ST LOUIS, July 3—O Donovan Rossa will arrive in this city from New York this evening He will be met at the railway station by a committee of prominent Irish citizens who will escort him to a hotel and from thence to a special meeting of the Irish land league, at which subscriptions for the Irish parliamentary fund will be solicited after speeches by guests of the league and local orators Extensive preparations have been made for the meeting, and it is expected that a large amount of money will be raised

A Brutal Murder

SIOUX CITY, Iowa July 3—J L Hatch proprietor of a gambling house in this city, was brutally murdered to night by George Trout, formerly of Denver and late of Omaha Trout worked in the Hatch place and had some difficulty with the proprietor about a game Trout drew a revolver and shot Hatch down Great indignation prevails and should Trout be caught he might be lynched Trout killed a man in Denver about four years ago under similar circumstances He has not yet been captured but doubtless will be

GENERAL NEWS.

Crops in Northern Colorado Damaged by Hail

The President Adds Another Veto to the Long List.

Mrs Cleveland Impedes Business in Congress

Damage by Hail

DENVER, July 3 Reports received here today that the damages done in Boulder Larimer and Weld counties by the recent hail storm will amount to a quarter of a million dollars The hail which in some sections was in size from common hail stone to that of eggs came just at a time when the wheat and oats were just heading out, and corn was in silk Small fruit was just beginning to ripen and apples pears, etc just beginning to form on the trees all of which were totally ruined

Sells Circus

DENVER, July 3 Sells Brothers' circus gave three performances here to day one in the morning afternoon and evening This being the first show in Denver this season the crowd attending each performance was suffocating The show is pronounced as very good

Another Veto

WASHINGTON July 3 The president to day vetoed the senate bill for the relief of Martin L Bundy In the veto message the president says that the claimant, who was a quartermaster, after settlement of his accounts was found to be indebted to the government, thereupon he put in a claim for forage for horses more than sufficient to offset his indebtedness There is no suggestion that he had or used any horses and if he did and failed to make claim for forage at the time he settled his accounts, then says the president, he presents a case of incredible ignorance of his rights or wonderful lack of that disposition to gain every possible advantage which is usually found among those who deal with the government The claim is not allowed on the ground that it would set a precedent which could hardly be ignored and which if followed would furnish such a means of attack upon the treasury quite as effectual as many which are now in active operation

Mrs Cleveland in Congress

WASHINGTON July 3 Mrs Cleveland paid her first visit to the house gallery this morning She occupied a seat in the executive gallery and was accompanied by Mrs Vilas, Mrs Lamont and Captain Lada The party remained about twenty minutes and absorbed the attention of the house to the neglect of a dull discussion which was progressing upon the Wisconsin claims amendment Many republican members whose seats being immediately under the gallery prevented them from having a good view of Mrs Cleveland turned democrats for the time and took vacant seats upon the democratic side where the view was unobstructed The party also paid a brief visit to the senate where they occupied seats reserved for the presidential family in the private gallery If their presence was known to the occupants of the floor or galleries the fact did not make itself conspicuously manifest.

NINTH Congress

SENATE

WASHINGTON July 3 The senate agreed to an amendment to the river and harbor bill appropriating one million dollars for improvement of New York harbor

The next amendment on which there was discussion was one appropriating $500,000 for improvement of the Potomac river in the vicinity of Washington with a proviso that no part of the sum should be expended upon or with reference to any place in respect to which the title of the United States was in doubt or in respect to which any claim adverse to the United States had been made The amendment was agreed to

After executive session adjourned.

HOUSE

After routine business the house went into committee of the whole Hammond of Georgia in the chair on the general deficiency bill The remainder of the afternoon was consumed in very uninteresting consideration of the bill most of the time being devoted to debate on items relative to house employes The strong opposition was manifested to a proposition granting an extra month's pay to all employes of the house, but it was finally agreed to After completing 65 of the 119 pages of the bill the committee rose and the house adjourned

Knights and the Police

NEW YORK July —The general executive board of the Knights of Labor finished their labors here to-day and the members left for home Afterward Powderly said It is the intention of the board to address a letter to Superintendent Murray and request him to furnish information about the action of Captain McCullough We have learned that Cooper Union hall has been frequently rented to secret societies without the presence of policemen We wish to know, therefore, whether Captain McCullough received orders from his superiors authority to have policemen present. I see by the papers that Captain McCullough classes the Knights of Labor with anarchists and communists. I have never at any time expressed nor will there be found in any of my public speeches, letters or in the work of order anything that could be construed as savoring of the doctrines of either anarchists or communists I consider this interference in our meeting and the remarks of Captain McCullough direct in the nature of an insult, first to workingmen of New York and second to workingmen of the United States It makes it a matter of national importance and this must be righted at once

The Coming Irish Convention

CHICAGO, July 3—Chauncey M Depew, president of the New York Central railroad has written Alexander Sullivan, chairman of the committee of arrangements for the Irish National League convention, tendering special cars for the use of the Irish parliamentary delegation and the reception committee who will accompany them to and from Chicago It is not yet known who will be deputed by Mr Parnell to represent the Irish parliamentary party, but Harrison's secretary has cabled Egan that Michael Davitt will be present and that a strong delegation of the party will attend the convention It is believed that arrangements will be completed in a few days with all leading railroad companies by which reduced rates of transportation can be secured for the delegates

Protection for Authors

WASHINGTON July 3—Judge Hammond of the United States court to day forwarded to be filed his opinion involving the copyright of James G Blaine's Twenty Years in Congress The case was argued before Judge Hammond while holding court for Judge Sage in Ohio and is said to go further than any previous decision in the protection of authors property in books The Bell Publishing Company sell Blaine's book only by subscription and has done everything possible to keep it away from the general trade but as far as went to view they sent copies for delivery to book stands and in pocket [illegible] the purchaser [illegible] to merchant [illegible] Judge Hammond [illegible] from [illegible] without the [illegible] obtained [illegible] as to sell an [illegible] The point is made that it is the duty of the proper retailer when [illegible] copy by subscription to make inquiry as to the authority of any one offering to sell in any other manner and failure to make inquiry is equivalent to participation in an act of fraud The act of congress is held to give a copyright without the monopoly of sale which is itself a property incident, and that copyright is entitled to be protected in the exclusive use of that which is exclusively his

The Markets

NEW YORK July Governments dull steady There was very little business in stocks until late in the afternoon, when Western Union gave a jump and rose to 69 to 69¾, at which price it closed Favorable earnings statements of the St Paul and Northern Pacific gave them good standing on the list and St Paul was the second favorite in the day's dealings Western Union opened at 65⅝, and was moderately active until the afternoon, when it became very active and the close of the market was amidst excitement The reasons given for the movement were various, chief among the stories being a rumor there had been a conference between the Western Union and Baltimore and Ohio companies, and another that a large broker had been caught with a short interest of 250 000 shares, another that the presence in Europe at the same time of Messrs Depew, Field, Garrett George Gould and Pender indicated something remarkable in the stock London brokers were said to have been heavy buyers Erie preferred also gained 2% Money was plenty and easy at from 1¾ to 2½ per cent for call loans. Sterling exchange was almost lifeless at unchanged quotations The exchange will not open till Tuesday, July 6

The people of Kingston, N. Y., have reason to be alarmed by an extraordinary occurrence there a few days ago. A lawyer appeared before the board of equalization and requested that an assessment of one thousand dollars be removed from a neighbor's property and placed on his own. The sound of Gabriel's trumpet would occasion no surprise there now.

The decision of Representative Curtin of Pennsylvania to retire from politics will be regretted. His hard common sense has checked a good deal of nonsense in the house. But his right to withdraw from the turmoil of congressional life has been well earned. He is now 69 years of age and has filled many offices of honor and trust for his state and nation.

News from England yesterday was not very encouraging to sympathizers of Ireland in the movement to obtain for it a better government. It is yet too soon to judge of the composition of the next house of commons. Gladstone can lose largely compared with the result of the last election. He has the Parnell party this time. Tory and unionist gains must be immense to wipe out his majority in the last house and the added Irish vote.

New York is setting a splendid example in its treatment of boycotters, and the imported methods of this foreign-born element will not again be resorted to for some time at least in that city. Five have been sent to prison at hard labor, where they will be taught industrious habits. Their offense was collecting a fine of a thousand dollars from the proprietor of a concert hall, who was conducting his business according to his own ideas. There is another batch to receive the attention of justice. They distributed boycotting circulars before an offending baker. As their course benefited the business they attempted to crush a term in jail will have a discouraging effect on would be imitators.

It is almost useless to warn the enthusiastic Fourth of July celebrators against the toy pistol, but if the deadly instrument was fully understood, parents would see to it that noise was made with something more harmless. An eastern exchange gives the following good advice to its little readers: "Beware, O small boy, of the deadly pistol. The fulminate of mercury in the little paper wafer that serves as a cap is a virulent poison. A very little of it goes a long way. A small sore in the hand, a fever, a stiff jaw, an agonizing death, the sagacious undertaker and a little mound all under the greenwood tree follow the detonations of these treacherous ministers of death. The boy who plays with a toy pistol is rarely permitted to run for constable. He becomes a musician prematurely, but his melody is not of the earth, earthy. If, therefore, the small boy wants his days to be long in the land let him abjure the toy pistol. Noise enough and fun enough can be made without it."

LITERARY

THE JULY CENTURY.

Articles of entertainment and of serious timely interest share equally the space of the July Century. In their order the illustrated papers are a double article on "Cross Country Riding in America," by Theodore Roosevelt and Henry Cabot Lodge, the former drawing from his experience in riding to hounds on Long Island, and the latter describing the older hunt at Genesee, Livingston county, New York, and that of the Myopia club in Essex county, Massachusetts, "Homing Pigeons," a finely illustrated account, by Mrs. E. S. Sharp, of the training and use of carrier pigeons, "A Day in Surrey with William Morris" the English poet, artist and socialist, by Miss Emma Lazarus, and Mrs. Schuyler van Rensselaer's third paper on "American Country Dwellings."

The frontispiece of the number is a profile portrait of Frank R. Stockton, the famous author of "Rudder Grange," and "The Late Mrs. Null," yet perhaps more widely known (to repeat the title of the accompanying anecdotal paper by C. C. Buel) as the author of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" With the text is also given a front face portrait of Mr. Stockton.

As usual the war papers are profusely illustrated, the first of them being a conclusion to the Antietam articles on the previous number, and, under the title "In the Wake of Battle," giving a woman's recollections of confederate hospital work at Shepherdstown during Antietam week. Three other papers deal anecdotally with the capture of New Orleans. Captain Beverley Kennon, who commanded the confederate steamer "Governor Moore," gives a thrilling description of the fighting and loss of his ship, Commander Albert Kautz, then a lieutenant on the Hartford, describes "Incidents of the Occupation of New Orleans," and Marion A. Baker, then the mayor's private secretary, treats the same subject from a confederate point of view. In "Memoranda of the Civil War," P. D. Haywood, the author of the striking paper in the April number, "Life on the Alabama," confederate cruiser, at the request of the editor gives a brief account of his experience afloat and ashore. General William F. Smith writes of "General George H. Thomas at Chattanooga," in answer to General Grant's article in The Century for last November, and H. S. Taylor contributes a stirring poem, entitled "The Man With the Musket."

"France and Indo China" by Augustine Heard deals with the causes and fruits of the recent war in Asia, and Rev. Leighton Parks, in "A Boat of the Monte Sect," describes a visit to a monastery of one of the Buddhist sects of Japan.

"The Labor Question" is ably treated from the point of view of a western manufacturer, by Edward Atkinson. "Glooscap and His Times," by Dr. Daniel G. Brinton, appears in The Century, and "Plants That Catch Flies," by Mrs. Lippincott (Sara Jane Clarke), in St. Nicholas, gives his views on the question of "Co-operation." There is also a letter on the industrial question by William Morris.

Mr. Howells contributes the sixth installment of his new novel "The Minister's Charge," and the short stories of the number are a numerous negro sketch by H. S. Edwards, entitled "Two Runaways" (illustrated by Kemble), and "Colborne Kenn," by James T. McKay.

The poems of the number are by Charles G. D. Roberts, the late Sidney Lanier, Richard Watson Gilder, Walter Learned, and others.

Two of the editorials in "Topics of the Time" deal with the labor question, and one with "Charity Organization." In the first form a reply is made to Mr. Morris' letter, which appears at the end of Miss Lazarus' paper on the poor artist's "Surrey manufactory." In "Open Letters," President Julius H. Seelye and Professor George P. Fisher contribute to the discussion on "Christian Union," and a member of parliament writes of "The Character of the new English House of Commons."

ST. NICHOLAS FOR JULY.

The July number of St. Nicholas is not lacking in patriotism, and opens with an interesting sketch of "La Fayette" and his two visits to America, which is in a way supplementary to Horace E. Scudder's "George Washington," this month's chapters of which deal with the Conway Cabal, Valley Forge and Monmouth, in which La Fayette took a prominent part. An account of a very high and remarkable flag raising is contributed by Dan Beard, in "Captain Jack's Fourth of July Kite."

The leading feature of the number, however, is undoubtedly the first installment of Rose Latimore Alling's short serial "Nan's Revolt," a story which in a bright, breezy style deals with the efforts of four society girls to break away from some of the unwholesome restraints of convention and fashion, and become independent and self supporting.

Ripley Hitchcock has a timely article on "Fly-fishing for Trout," in which he shows how boys and girls can become proficient in this attractive sport, and how, when away from streams and lakes, they can practice fly casting on the front lawn.

Among other prominent features of the magazine are the entertaining chapters of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" with a startling development—to be continued, an exciting installment of J. T. Trowbridge's Maine coast story, "The Kelp Gatherers", some more notes on "Wonders of the Alphabet," and a "Ready for Business" article on "Boat building" as an employment for American boys.

Palmer Cox tells about the "Brownies in the Menagerie," and other poems, verses, stories, sketches, and illustrations are contributed by Mary Hallock Foote, Alfred Brennan, Frank Dempster Sherman, John R. Coryell, F. H. Lungren, Grace Denio Litchfield, Malcolm Douglas, Rev. Charles R. Talbot, and others.

LITERARY NOTES.

Mr. George Alfred Townsend has another novel in hand.

"Pendennis" will follow "Vanity Fair" in the new cheap edition of Thackeray's works.

The authorized English edition of Karl Marx's "Das Kapital" will be published in the autumn.

Mr. Julian Hawthorne intends to bring some of his recent contributions to newspapers and periodicals into book form.

Under the title of "Sketch of My Life" Messrs. Longmans of London will soon publish a volume of reminiscences by H. Fawcett.

A new novel, Hannibal, by W. Clark, by the author of "A Letter Dated," will shortly make its appearance from the press of Messrs. Henry Holt & Co.

Mr. W. C. Prime, the literary executor of General McClellan, is arranging to publish Memoirs of the Civil War, and will bring out the work early in the autumn.

Rosmini's famous work on education, lately translated by Mrs. William Gladstone, English authority on the higher education of women. The translation will soon be published by Ginn & Co.

The American translator of Stanislas Julien's "Histoire de la Soie" has written a new work to be published serially in the Keystone, a novel of to-day, and is called "The Parkhurst Word."

Mr. John Payne, translator of "Scheherazade, or The Nights," has prepared a translation of the Decameron of Boccaccio, in prose and verse, which is to be issued to subscribers in three volumes, by the Villon Society.

The title of William Black's forthcoming novel is "Judith Shakespeare," that being the name of the heroine. She is the daughter of a clergyman of parliament and has the misfortune of falling among the poor. To indulge this she leaves her father's house and lives in lodgings. The story will first appear in a series of newspapers.

The recent movement in the direction of English literature has taken a new shape in the Ancient and Modern Library of Theological Literature, which is to be issued, under careful editorial supervision, in a series of one shilling volumes by Messrs. Griffin & Farran of London. It will contain examples of the work of the greatest writers of this century.

Professor Morse of Amherst discusses Jackson's administration in the new number of the Political Science Quarterly and reaches the conclusion that its general influence was good rather than evil. Mr. W. I. Bevridge, of Georgia, a diplomat who has received some attentions from the New York Sun, contributes an article on our law of citizenship.

It is said that the officers of a certain British regiment finding considerable resemblance to themselves and their doings in some of the army stories written by J. S. Winter (the author of "Bootles's Baby"), actually called a solemn meeting in order to ascertain what man in the regiment was thus unfortunately venturing to make copy out of the peculiarities in arms. The regiment was much surprised when it came to learn that the mysterious Winter was a woman.

The seventh volume of Von Ranke's "History of the World" is ready for the press. The historian also left a great many unpublished manuscripts, and there is reason to believe that his "Remains" are very valuable. These manuscripts are to be looked over and prepared for publication by Dr. Wilhelm Wattenbach, who was Ranke's intimate friend and fellow worker for nearly twenty years. He is to have the use of Ranke's splendid library, which contains 1,100 volumes, and which is insured for $30,000.

Dr. Legge, of Oxford, who has just published a translation of the Li Ki among the Professor Max Muller's sacred books of the east, has in the press a translation of the Tsze Ku Tzu, with notes, intended, he says, "to give readers some idea of what Buddhism really is." At the end of the volume the Chinese text, according to a Corean recension received from Japan, will be reprinted. It was republished in Japan a century ago by a monk. Dr. Legge is also at work for further volumes of the sacred books on translations of Lau Tzu and Chwang Tzu.

BURGLARS AT WORK.

Clerk of the Alamo the Loser to the Extent of $300.

Yesterday morning between the hours of and 4:00 o'clock burglars entered The Alamo hotel and succeeded in relieving the proprietor, Mr. F. A. Clark, of $250 worth of jewelry, $54 in money and some cigars and tobacco. Entrance was effected through the door which was left open at night for the coming in later. The burglars went to the office where a light had been left burning. Through the carelessness of the night clerk the safe was left open, the combination being turned on. With the safe in this condition they easily forced the outside door and with the aid of a screwdriver that they procured in the kitchen the inner doors were pried open and the money and diamonds taken. With the same implement the money drawer under the counter was forced and $2 in stamps obtained. The money drawer was found to be the key to the cigar case, which was unlocked and some cigars and the sweet Caporal cigarettes taken. The office of the proprietor, who got up for the purpose of calling a gentleman who was to take the train, discovered that a robbery had occurred and immediately gave the alarm. The sheriff and the police officers were notified and at once instituted a search for the thieves. The early train was watched by a number of suspicious characters held up without any satisfactory results. The impression seemed to prevail very generally that the robbery had been committed by novices and not experts. The thieves evidently had no intention or no means with which to open the safe from the fact that they secured the cleaver from the kitchen. It was their good fortune to find the safe open and they had comparatively little work in opening the drawers. One of the occupants of the building heard the men come in and heard them walking in the office and supposing that it was the porter or some person connected with the house paid little heed to it. Clerk from the start had his suspicions as to who had done the job and posted the officers. From information obtained from him they set to work and in the afternoon arrested at Manitou Joe Ray and Charles Gardner, both former employes of Mr. Clark, and they are now in the county jail. Although none of the stolen goods were recovered there is some pretty strong evidence against them.

It is understood that an effort was also made Friday night to burglarize the residence of Mr. Mulholland on Bijou street, but Mulholland was awakened by the noise and frightened the thieves away.

Real Estate Transfers.

Manitou Items.

Visit Manitou today and enjoy the glorious Fourth.

Manitou is making exert preparations for the boom they expect soon.

Marshal Bowers took a very active interest yesterday in the apprehension of the thieves that burglarized The Alamo. Their arrest was due to his vigilance.

On account of the grand celebration at Denver the Denver club will not have their base ball game and other festivities at Manitou this year.

The hop at the Mansion last night was largely attended by society people, both from at home and abroad, and a very enjoyable evening was spent by all who participated. From present indications, socially the season will be a very active one, and Messrs. Bailey & Walker will aim to entertain their guests, and at the same time keep the mold from the floor either at the Mansion or the Manitou.

There was a fine display of fire works at the Iron Springs hotel at Manitou last night and there were large numbers in attendance including many from Colorado Springs. Later in the evening there was a hop in the dining room of the hotel. Excellent music was furnished and the guests together with a few invited guests enjoyed themselves hugely.

The Antlers Arrivals.

Put at Work.

New York, July 3.—This morning the five boycotters sentenced yesterday for blackmailing Theiss, of concert hall fame, were removed to the state prison to serve out their respective terms.

Seven Jurors Accepted.

Chicago, July 3. At the adjournment of the criminal court to-day, after two weeks' trial, seven jurors have been obtained and accepted by both sides.

Boating in Maine.

Lake George, N. Y., July 3. Bowdoin college defeated the University of Pennsylvania in a one mile and a half rowing match on the lake here this morning by about three lengths.

Curtin's Decision.

Washington, July 3. Representative Curtin of Pennsylvania has decided not to be a candidate for renomination.

The Confederate Preacher.

St. Louis Republican.

It is remembered that in 1862 a country preacher somewhere in central Missouri was notified by the local militia that he must cease his treasonable utterances in the pulpit or be arrested. The preacher demanded a bill of particulars. He was told in an abrupt way that he must pray for the president, and, to the astonishment of the militia, he promptly declared his willingness to comply with the order. On the following Sunday morning his little church was crowded with militiamen and confederate sympathizers, each filled with half-concealed anxiety for the day's results. It was a hot day in June. Outside the church the horses neighed and whinnied. Over the square, wooden pulpit the hot breezes toyed with the leaves of a hymn book which had been opened at the ancient tune of Mear. In the amen corner sat the officers of the militia. In the opposite corner were the deacons of the congregation. The white-haired preacher was hidden from view behind the pulpit longer than usual that morning, but at last the services began and a breathless hush fell upon the assemblage as it solemnly knelt for the prayer on which the fate of the congregation was hanging.

"O Lord," said the preacher, breaking the painful silence which followed his introductory of thanks, "bless Thy waiting congregation. Bless Thy servant who shall address them this day and may his words be fruitful to Thy kingdom. O Lord, in a special manner we pray Thee to pour out Thy blessings upon the president!"

"Amen!" said the kneeling militia officers, nudging each other violently, while great drops of perspiration stood upon the foreheads of the deacons. There was a brief and awful pause.

"Lord," ejaculated the preacher familiarly with sudden animation. "Thou knowest whom I mean. I mean Jefferson Davis!"

A Five-Cent Speculator.

Washington Correspondence Cleveland Leader.

Some of the funniest scenes about Washington are found in the street cars, and there is no better place to which to study human nature. All classes ride in them, from the cabinet minister to the messenger in the department, and I have had as my companions at one time a general of the army, the chief justice of the supreme court, a letter carrier, a dress maker and Sam Randall. I ride down town every morning on a five-cent hackle and I often have the chief of a great government bureau as my seat mate. He is a man well known throughout the country, and he receives a salary of $3,000 a year. I have noticed that he always takes his seat nearest the fare-box and that he buys a package of six tickets for a quarter when he rides down. He takes pains to offer to pass up all the fares and puts them into the box for his fellow-passengers. Whenever a nickel is given him he changes it into his pocket, and puts into the box one of his tickets, so that when he has received five nickels he is one ticket ahead. He thus gets his ride free. It makes no difference to any one, I suppose, but it looks small for $5,000 man.
